This is a technique for the teaching of English which uses a variety of tools to give students a visual and auditory representation of what they are writing. Students are taught to create words by breaking them down and then re-assembling them. The teacher writes words down on a piece of paper, sometimes in different sizes and colours, and then hands the paper to the class. The students follow the line with their eyes and then write the words on the paper. Another simple technique to use in the classroom is to teach students to use fillers to create correct grammar. Some common fillers used are: people, places, things, sounds, and actions. For example: *people: yes sir/ma'am/please *places: in the classroom *things: a pencil, a book, a desk *sounds: a buzzer, a doorbell *actions: a teacher asked me As well as fillers, students are taught that they should always use the correct article when referring to people or objects. The payment is generally based on your use of the site and the value that you provide. Whether it's a daily price or a monthly or annual payment, the cost is incurred by you regardless of how much you use it. The value that you provide is the amount of data, information, and services you use or access. And the more you use it, the more value you provide. Just like any other product or service. This type of agreement is called a pay-per-use model. So, when you use my website, you get all the data that I have to offer. You get to see my Facebook posts. You get to download my free ebooks. And you get to take my free quizzes. You get to connect with me on Twitter, LinkedIn, and Google+ and share my posts and pages. You get to watch my vlogs on YouTube. You get to connect with me on social media and my website. And you get to send me an email, request a quote, submit a complaint, or share a recipe. 82157476af
